Jun 18, 2007

On June 16, the General Assembly members of the EJTA, The European Journalism Training Association, unanimously decided to welcome Mondragon University's HUHEZI faculty as a member in their annual meeting, which was held in Paris.

The European Journalism Training Association (EJTA) was established in Brussels in 1990 with the aim to enable different training centres in all of Europe to collaborate and to broaden the European dimension. The Association represents their interests, co-ordinates exchanges and organises educational co-operation. The Association is a non-profit organisation, and it counts 50 members from more than 20 countries, and it is in close touch with some 20 other European institutes.
