

Open enrollment period for the master Developing Teaching Innovation Project

Nov 25, 2010

From November 29 to January 21 it will remain open the registration period for the master Developing Teaching Innovation Project. The official title of master is: "Development of Educational Innovation Project Methodology in Educational Institutions."

The registration will be accepted in Eskoriatza, Gipuzkoa, in the Academic Secretariat of the Faculty of Humanities and Education of Mondragon University.

For more detailed information on the master, is advisable to contact the web Berrimet.

In this master students will work intervention strategies and resources aimed at implementing and managing innovation projects in the field of education

Who is it for?

The Master is aimed at professionals in the field of education: schools, government and other educational institutions working in the field of design and project management of innovation. It begins in January and ends in December 2011. Students will combine %30 classroom activities and on-line work.

Methodology

Learning will be focused on the student. The project led by the student will mark his or her educational journey. It will promote functional and meaningful learning through methodologies based on case studies, problems and projects. Activities will be aimed at finding information, analysis and reflection. The Masters is part-time, 70% shall be made through the Moodle platform. 30% will be made in person: practice, tutoring sessions and classes.

Structure

To get the master's degree, students must complete 60 ECTS credits: 20 ECTS for the compulsory common route; 20 ECTS to choose between the two options available; and 20 ECTS related to practice and master project.

Organization

Mariam Bilbatua directs the master. She's a Doctor of Science in Education, director of the Hezi Institute and teacher at the HUHEZI faculty. The course will begin on January 21 and will end in December of that year. Cost: 4,950 euros.